Coach Ian Barker

The 2009 season marks Ian Barker's 19th year of intercollegiate coaching, his 11th at Macalester, and his seventh year as Macalester head coach.

During the eight seasons Barker served as the top assistant at the University of Wisconsin, the Badgers went 111-38-20 and won one Big Ten championship while making four NCAA appearances. In 1995 the Badgers were 20-4-1 and won the NCAA Division I national championship.

While 2008 was the first year Barker coached full time at Macalester, he has worked alongside Coach John Leaney since the 1999 season. During this period the Macalester men have gone 70-19-11 in MIAC play and 115-54-18 overall. Over these 10 seasons the Scots have won five regular season MIAC championships and been to the NCAA playoffs four times, including the quarter finals in 2002. Barker has coached four All-Americans at Macalester and two conference players of the year. As Macalester head coach, his teams won two conference championships.

Prior to coming to Macalester full time, Barker served as the state director of coaching and player development for the Minnesota Youth Soccer Association, serving 80,000 constituents in 140 clubs throughout Minnesota.

Barker serves as an instructor in both the coaching education programs of the United States Soccer Federation and the National Soccer Coaches Association of America. He himself holds a USSF A License, NSCAA Premier and Master Coaching Diploma, and an English FA coaching badge.

Educated at the University of Warwick Barker received a 2:1 degree in philosophy and literature and a post-graduate certificate in education. He is married to Tess Surprenant, who works at the University of Minnesota's Carlson School of Management, and they live with their cat "Schnuffy" in Minneapolis.
